

NEW YORK TIMES

10 February 1976

SOCCO / W. Germany;

INFORMATION Service

More 'C.I.A. Agents' Listed By West German Magazine

BONN, Feb. 9 (UPI)—A West German news magazine today published the names of 10 more persons it said were agents of the United States Central Intelligence Agency in Bonn and said it was not concerned about what happened to them.

Information Service, a magazine with a small circulation that describes itself as socialist, rejected warnings from a United States Embassy spokesman that publication could incite "lunatics and fanatics" to attack American diplomats. It said that the safety of the persons whom it named had to be weighed against the safety and independence of entire nations.

"The C.I.A. has proven often enough that it is ready if necessary to crush freedom by bloody intervention," it said.

The magazine gave the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the persons it listed today, including women it said were posing as secretaries and men posing as diplomats. It published a first list of 15 names last week.